Overview

Amy works with most major insurers as well as large corporations to assist them with claims in personal injury, public liability, professional indemnity and workers compensation. She also provides advice in relation to property claims arising from motor vehicle accidents.

In addition to her claims experience, Amy assists in Workplace Health & Safety matters.

Experience

Examples of her experience include:

- advocating for clients in Section 81A hearings in the Workers Rehabilitation and Compensation Tribunal, appearances, conciliation conferences and mediations in the Magistrates Court of Tasmania;
- acting as instructing solicitor and assisting Counsel in Supreme Court proceedings;
- assisting with defending investigations commenced by the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) against a number of medical professionals;
- instructing expert witnesses and preparing proofs of evidence for use in the Supreme Court of Tasmania; and
- assisting in defending proceedings issued by WorkSafe Tasmania and coronial inquests.

Amy is part of a team that prepares a regular commentary to the industry in relation to workers compensation.

She is a member of the Australian Insurance Law Association (AILA).

Amy has appeared in the Workers Rehabilitation and Compensation Tribunal and the Magistrates Court of Tasmania.
